

NORTHWESTERN'S FAST FLYER IN CREEK IN WEST

Wrecked on U. P. After Severe Storm Along Pacific Coast

Whittier, Calif., Feb. 16-(AP)—Rescuers battled the raging flood waters of Puente Creek near here today in their effort to search the forward section of the Los Angeles-Chicago Northwestern-Pacific Flyer which last night broke through an undermined steel trestle across the stream, causing a known loss of two lives.

The flooded stream up to an early hour today had prevented searchers from breaking into the overturned dining car which landed in midstream and which is believed to contain the bodies of at least three more persons.

As the train moved over the trestle, a part of its supports buckled and the locomotive tender, diner and a baggage car plunged into the torrent below. The two injured men listed stood at two deaths and six injured.

Engineer Is Killed Charles Ireland, engineer, was ground to death when he attempted to leap from his cab as the locomotive dove into the water.

An unidentified man, said to have been a cook aboard the diner, is known to have lost his life.

C. H. Waters, Salt Lake City, is the only passenger known to have been injured. His injuries were slight.

The other victims, all members of the train personnel, were brought to a hospital here.

Weak at Both Ends Railroad officials reported that the trestle had been weakened at both approaches by the force of flood waters which have assailed it for three days and had buckled under the weight of the locomotive.

A "feeler" locomotive had been sent safely over the bridge a few minutes ahead of the main train and the train was given orders to proceed.

The flyer, with a running time of 63 hours to Chicago, left Los Angeles at 6 p. m., yesterday. The Continental Limited, another east-bound flyer, was stopped at the bridge five minutes after the flyer.

The train was consolidated and routed early today.

SIXTEEN DIE IN STORM San Francisco, Feb. 16-(AP)—The toll of the greatest storm between the Pacific coast states and mid-ocean in the history of the United States Weather Bureau continued today to pound with diminishing violence in southern and central California while the death toll stood at 16 dead, 21 injured and much property damage.

The greatest tragedy was in the mountain camp of the Southern California Edison Company where eleven persons were killed in a double avalanche early yesterday.

Flood waters of Puente Creek near Whittier so weakened the structure that it collapsed as the fast Los Angeles-Chicago flyer of the Northwestern-Pacific moved across it last night.

Two were killed in Los Angeles traffic accidents. A car was thrown when he fell from a San Diego rail road trestle.

The entire Pacific coast felt some manifestation of the storm. A slight earthquake shock was felt in San Francisco yesterday afternoon.

The affected area extended from the Aleutian Islands to Lower California and from the coast to the Hawaiian Islands. Many steamers radioed that they would be delayed.

Summit Observatory in the high Sierras reported 12 inches of snow. Mount Wilson reported 7 inches precipitation. Rainfall since Saturday in most of the area has ranged from 3 to 6 inches. The weather forecast today called for still more.

FRANCE REJECTS COOLIDGE PLEA: REPLIES AWAITED

Four - Power Conference on Disarmament May be the Result

BULLETIN Rome, Feb. 16-(AP)—Italy will follow France's lead in rejecting President Coolidge's naval disarmament proposal, it was announced in a semi-official communiqué today. The French government is ready and will probably be delivered sometime today.

Washington, Feb. 16-(AP)—Although France has rejected the proposal of President Coolidge for a five power conference on the limitation of naval armament, Secretary Kellogg is hopeful that the French government ultimately "will lend its aid to the consummation of such an agreement."

With the declaration of France, a possibility of a strengthened by reports from Tokyo that Japan is preparing an acceptance of the invitation without reservations.

The reply of Italy is being awaited with interest by official Washington together with the answer of Great Britain, also understood to be an acceptance.

The main contention of France in her reply is that the American proposals in their present form might compromise the success of the preliminary disarmament commission, created by the League of Nations.

DISEASE AMONG POULTRY THREAT TO THE BUSINESS Systematic Sanitation Plan for Raisers is Outlined

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 16-(AP)—Poultry disease constitute a big threat to chicken raising and unless veterinarians cooperate with poultrymen there is a real danger of disease putting many Illinois poultrymen out of business. H. A. H. poultry extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, this afternoon told representatives of Illinois' 800 graduate veterinarians who are here attending the eighth annual conference held for them at the college.

He emphasized the value of sanitation in poultry raising and pointed out the factor of health is so important that the poultryman must first be convinced of the value of sanitation in and around the poultry house before better breeding or feeding methods could be used successfully.

The speaker outlined, as follows, a systematic poultry sanitation plan that the college is furthering throughout the state in cooperation with interested farmers and poultrymen, farm advisers and veterinarians:

1. All mature fowls to be confined to a limited range area on the double harding system and not allowed to run with other stock.

2. All mature fowls to be tested for avian tuberculosis and bacillary white diarrhea by a competent local veterinarian and reactors removed under his supervision at the owner's expense.

3. All breeding fowls to be allowed outdoors in direct sunlight on all fair days during the winter months.

4. All poultry houses to be equipped with concrete board floors.

5. All houses to be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected once a month.

6. All young chicks to be grown on clean grass range over which no chickens of any age were allowed to run the previous season.

GASOLINE TAX IS INTRODUCED TODAY BY ROCKFORD MAN

Bill Asks Tax of Two Cents a Gallon on Gasoline Sold

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16-(AP)—Bills providing for a tax of two cents per gallon on gasoline, to be used in construction and maintenance of hard roads, were introduced into the house this morning.

The bills were introduced by Representative Hunter of Rockford.

One bill provides for an excise tax of two cents on each gallon of gasoline sold by distributors. This fee is to be used to take the place of the twenty-five cents on each $100 of assessed valuation on property in respective counties for the upkeep of their highways under the present law. The other bill would repeal the provisions of the present law providing for the 25 cent assessment.

Only on Vehicles Representative Hunter's bill provides that the tax must be paid by the distributor selling gasoline or other motor fuels. The license fee on gasoline to be used is exempt in the revenue cases. For operating stationary gas engines, tractors, motor boats, airplanes and gasoline used for cleaning and dyeing purposes.

The exemption is taken care of by providing that upon an affidavit with the one from whom such gasoline is bought for such purposes that they shall be used to a distinct end of two cents on each gallon of gas purchased.

Thirty per cent of the fees collected are to be deposited to the credit of the "hard road fund" and may be used for improving or repairing or extending the highways permissible under the sixty million or one hundred million dollar bond issues.

70 Per Cent to Counties The balance of the fees revert to the counties to be used in the construction of local state aid roads. The revenue is carried out in the following manner:

Thirty-five per cent reverts to the counties in proportion to the total mileage of state aid roads in such counties bears to the total mileage of state aid roads in the state and the balance of 35 per cent reverts in the proportion that the total amount of motor vehicle fees collected under the motor vehicle law from such counties during the preceding calendar years bears to the total of such motor vehicle fees collected in the entire state during each year.

Reapportionment Not Fight Between Cook and State - Dailey Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16-(AP)—The fight for reapportionment of the state is not a fight between Chicago and down state but a fight to uphold the dictates of the Illinois constitution, Senator Dailey said on the floor of the Senate this morning in pleading for adoption of his reapportionment resolution.

"There are some," said Senator Dailey, "who consider this a battle between Chicago and downstate, or contrary-wise. My friends and colleagues seem to have their position on this being a battle of sections. It is not a question of downstate or Chicago, but a question of obeying the constitution. The constitution does not belong to Chicago or downstate, it belongs to the people of the state, and it is not a question of Chicago or downstate, but as a friend of the constitution."

Senator Dailey's resolution, the first introduced at this session of the general assembly, calls for appointment of a special committee of six senators and six representatives, including six members from Cook County, to draw up a bill reapportioning the state as determined by the population of 1920.

"The real contest," said Senator Dailey, "will come from many districts in Cook County, where they prefer these conditions to remain."

"If I got over this, I'm going to try it again," the youth is said to have informed his mother at the hospital the day after the shooting.

EXPLORES WERE FORCED TO LEAVE PLANE IN JUNGLE Expedition to Return from Dutch Guinea Trip Feb. 24th

Elgin, Ill., Feb. 16-(AP)—Laden with thousands of scientific specimens gathered during a 16 months trip to the unknown wilds of Dutch New Guinea, the American Dutch expedition, sponsored by the National Museum of Washington, D. C., is scheduled to arrive in Boston from the Orient, Feb. 24. Richard K. Peck of this city, an aviator and official photographer of the expedition, arrived in America ahead of the main party so he could have the privilege of developing the "shot" developed 21,000 feet of film.

Peck arrived in Elgin yesterday, and will proceed to Boston this week, to meet the other members of the party upon their arrival in the east. Prof. M. W. Stirling of Berkeley, Calif., headed the expedition.

Members of the expedition penetrated country never before trod by white men, and for five months lived in the heart of a pigmy village, 300 miles inland on the banks of the Mambero river. Invaluable ethnological, botanical, biological and geological specimens were gathered and are being brought back to this country, to become the property of the National Museum. Incidentally members of the expedition were compelled to leave their heavy Yackey transport plane in the New Guinea interior, owing to their inability to surmount a steep climb to the top of a mountain.

Shanghai is Again in Imminent Danger BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Shanghai, goal of the Cantonese or nationalist armies, apparently again is threatened by the sudden and unexpected defeat of the forces of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, defender of the city, on the southern battle front.

Hanchow, capital of Chekiang province, is in imminent danger of falling before the southerners who are expected to capture it. Reports of desertions to the Cantonese ranks are in circulation.

Marshal Sun has declined to accept Secretary Kellogg's proposal to exempt Shanghai from the war area. The additional battalions of British Punjab troops have arrived at Chang-hai.

The situation in the north of China grew steadily more complicated as Manchurian troops and his ally, General Chang Eaung Chang, of Shanghai pushed on into the province of Honan, now occupied by the allied northern troops.

PREACHER, KNOWN IN DIXON, TO LOSE USE OF HIS VOICE

Operation on Throat to End Career of Former Sterling Man

Rev. Ralph V. Callaway, former pastor of the Christian church of Sterling, N. Y., will submit to an operation for the removal of the vocal cord, which will mean the loss of his voice and compel him to give up the ministerial profession. Rev. Callaway has many friends in Dixon who will regret to learn of the sorrows of his affliction. The Palmyra, Mo., Spectator has the following to say of Rev. Callaway's case:

Here is a story that we write with reluctance and regret. It is a story of pathos and tragedy and it concerns a close neighbor and good friend. It is the story of a man in the prime of life, apparently in perfect health, without ache or pain but whom nature has inexorably decreed must submit to a major operation to the surgeon's knife in order that in insidious disease which without previous warning has suddenly made itself manifest, may be checked before it is too late.

It is the story of a man who will go to the operating table with the full knowledge that he will leave it unable to longer follow his chosen profession and be compelled to take up some altogether new and different calling, he knows not what, to earn himself a livelihood.

Several weeks ago, Rev. Ralph Callaway, pastor of the Christian church of this city, became troubled with a hoarseness in his voice. His physician sent him to a throat specialist who discovered a small tumor on his vocal cord, and removed it. There were some doubts about the matter but it was finally decided that the tumor was benign and the patient received the hearty congratulations of friends. A second operation was necessary which was performed last week, and this time three laboratory tests gave indubitable proof of malignancy. An immediate operation on the vocal cord was ordered which means the destruction of the voice so far as public speaking is concerned, and the end of his career in the pulpit.

"Sunday morning Rev. Callaway preached as usual and when services were over his congregation held a business meeting with the result that he will be asked to continue his services as pastor until the completion of his contract and his hospital expenses will be provided for. Rev. Callaway went to St. Louis Monday morning, seemingly in fine physical condition, in full possession of all his faculties and to return with the power of speech permanently impaired."

FEAR ROCKFORD MAN HAS TAKEN LIFE RECENTLY

Man Who Tried Suicide in Cell is Reported Missing

Rockford—Police and friends of Aaron Lundberg, age 40, who tried to hang himself in the city jail when he was arrested on an intoxication charge three weeks ago, today were worried by complaint that he disappeared last Thursday from his rooming house and no trace of him had been found.

Lundberg was near death from strangulation when fellow prisoners in the city jail found him. He had tied his belt around his neck and attached one end to a beam in the top of his cell.

Fellow prisoners tried to encourage and comfort him and persuade him to curb his fondness for alcohol. Next day he was transferred to the county jail and later, when his fine was satisfied, he was released.

He appeared in normal spirits for a day or two after being released from jail. His room rent was paid for a week in advance when he disappeared. Search of his usual haunts and inquiry among former companions failed to reveal any trace of

EXACTLY SUITS ELDERLY PERSONS.

There is a sound therapeutic reason why Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds is especially suited to the needs of elderly persons; because it contains no chloroform, or opiates to cause constipation (that bug-bear of advancing years) and to dry up the natural and necessary secretions. Mildly laxative, wonderfully soothing and healing to the irritated area, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound quickly stops all coughs and throat irritations, bringing "flu" coughs and disturbing night coughs. Is exactly suited to the needs of elderly people. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. Boynton again addressed an increasing congregation at the Baptist Church. The pastor led the meeting and Rev. C. F. Kerr of Amoy led in prayer and Rev. A. W. Carlson closed the meeting in prayer. Miss Vivian Graves led the singing and sang that beautiful solo "In the Secret of His Presence" with much feeling. Mrs. Frank Stephan played the organ in her usual capable way. It was a great meeting and much enjoyed by everybody.

The Doctor took for his text, Jo. 12: 2 "There They Made Him a Supper" and spoke on "Making Occasions for Jesus." The special occasion referred to was at one of the darkest hours in the human history of Jesus. It was a time of gloom and depression. Threats were being uttered everywhere by the rulers against Jesus and against Lazarus whom he had raised from the dead. The only quiet spot for the Master was the little home at Bethany. They were reclining around the table in the oriental fashion, their feet bare when Mary took the precious ointment to anoint the feet of Jesus. They were celebrating His presence and the miracle of Lazarus' resurrection and trying to show forth their love to Him. The odor of the ointment filled the whole house and it is still distilling its fragrance in the world at large.

It was a great occasion. There has rarely been such appreciation of great beginnings. An old New England father has a son full of mischief and yet lovable, not mean, in character and he says: "Admirer, I think that God has marked you for great things." The boy pondered the saying and finally became the great missionary to Burma—Admirer Judson. A great English Duke takes a little English child and holds it on his broad hands and cries to the assembled nobles: "Gentlemen," he cried, "uncover and salute your future queen." The baby was the future Queen of Great Britain and Emperor of India. Coming events cast their shadows before but not always. Who would have dreamed that out of the log cabin in Kentucky that the Great Emancipator would be born whose name now ranks among the world's best.

The only thing that spoiled the feast was the growl of Judas. "Why this waste?" and yet it brought forth from the lips of Jesus the greatest encomium in the world: "She hath done what she could." It was a supreme moment with great possibilities. The precious ointment poured forth but not yet lost its fragrance. A truly great sermon. We only wish you had been there to listen. Tonight, the Dr. will speak on "Why 'Don't God Kill the Devil?'" Come and hear him answer this prevailing question. A hearty welcome awaits you.

Coughs Stopped Almost Instantly

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine relieves the most stubborn coughs that otherwise would hang on for weeks. Acts on new theory, relieves the inflammation and irritation which is almost always the cause of the cough, and stops it dead. Thoxine is equally good for sore throat for which purpose it is far superior to gargles. Contains no dope, chloroform or harmful drugs. Once used you will never be without it. Pleasant taste and safe for children. Remember one swallow stops night coughs or sore throat within 15 minutes or money back. 25c. 50c and $1.00. Rowland's Pharmacy and all good druggists.—Adv.

M. E. MINISTERS' PENSION NEARLY $3,500,000 IN '26

Problem Growing More Difficult Yearly, Report Shows

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 16—(AP)—Nearly $3,500,000 was paid out in pensions during 1926 by the Methodist Episcopal Church, it was reported at the annual meeting of the board of pensions and relief of the church.

Pensions aggregating $3,390,000 were paid to 3284 preachers, 4031 widows of preachers and 898 orphan children of ministers, a total of 8,413 pensioners.

In the absence through illness of Bishop P. T. Kenney, Omaha, Nebraska, president of the board, Charles Waterman, Bolton, Ill. vice president, presided. Robert Campbell, Chicago, presented the treasurer's report. Rev. Thomas Stafford reported as secretary and statistician and Rev. Charles H. Owen, business manager, made his report.

Dr. Hingeley reported to the board the fundamental of the pension plan which will be submitted for action to the next general conference. He explained that the plan is substantially the same as that of the Episcopal Church Pension Fund, the Presbyterian and all the newer pension funds of the churches and states, which pensions ministers, their widows and dependent orphans on a reserve fund and not on an endowment fund. The ministers contribute 2 1/2 per cent of their salary, each pastor serves by the minister contributes 5 to 10 per cent of the pastor's salary, and contributions of churches allocated to Minister's Pension Association. These total accumulations plus compound interest, provide a sure old age pension at 65 years of age, and will maintain an exact balance between pension received and pension obligations. The pension system will be operated as a fund in reserve. The ministers reserve pension fund is connected with denominational, and not localized in an annual conference. The fund will be administered by the Connecticut Board of Pensions and Relief, created and controlled by the General Conference, under actuarial supervision and control.

Death, Disability, Widows' and Orphans' Benefits are provided from the contributions made by the laymen through the pastoral charges. Problem is Growing.

The increased length of life of ministers makes the pension problem more difficult every year.

"The pension age," says Dr. Hingeley, "is sixty-seven, and the average pension period is twelve years. The extension of life by one year would increase the pension period one year more or one twelfth the total amount of the pension period. This necessitates a fund reserve and greatly increases the pension period of the minister. Because of increase of life and because preachers, particularly in the sixties, are living longer, it takes more reserve money for pensions."

Dr. Hingeley also reported that the Methodist Episcopal Church had for the first time a plan for pensioning its three thousand supply pastors, who are in charge of churches and do actual pastoral work, but who are not actual members of the annual conference. The plan is called the Embury-Strawbridge fund for supply pastors. The same principles that are used in pensioning regular preachers will be employed to pension supply pastors.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

OLD MASTERS

Ah, love, let us be true
To one another! for the world which seems
To lie before us like a land of dreams,
So various, so beautiful, so new,
Hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light,
Nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain;
And we are here as on a darkling plain,
Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight,
Where ignorant armies clash by night.

Cover with a layer of ham and sprinkle with parsley. Continue layer for layer, making two layers of ham and three of noodles and sprinkling each layer of ham with parsley. Add milk and cover with crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven for twenty-five minutes.

Serve from the baking dish.

Delightful Party at Leland's Home

Monday evening, Feb. 14, the P. E. O. entertained the B. I. L.'s with a Valentine party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Leland, the hostesses, being Mrs. Leland, Mrs. Althea, Miss Burham and Miss Ahrens.

The game of hearts was played during the evening. Mr. Rowland winning the head favor and Dr. Trowbridge the consolation.

While refreshments were being served each guest was requested to write an original Valentine, the reading of which caused much merriment. The ladies' prize for the best composition was awarded to Mrs. Rowland, the gentlemen's to Dr. Trowbridge.

Bouquets of red carnations and red hearts were used as decorations. The same color scheme was carried out in the delicious refreshments which were served by the hostesses. The evening will long be remembered as one of great pleasure by all who attended.

Fortieth Wedding Anniversary Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens were happily and completely surprised last evening at their home, honoring the fortieth wedding anniversary of the couple. There were forty guests in attendance and all spent a pleasant evening.

The feature of the affair was a mock wedding with Harry Hess as the minister. The ring bearer was Dot Hess and her sister, Evelyn Hess was the flower girl. The bride wore a bridal veil and wreath as she did forty years ago and she was presented a diamond ring from the ten-cent store. Over the radio at 9 o'clock from WLS came clear and loud Lehengrin's Bridal Chorus, thy request. This was indeed a surprise to all present and added much to the festivity of the occasion. Mrs. Charles Hey and Mrs. Sutherland, mother of Mrs. William Struckman, added to the pleasure of all in giving a number of delightful readings. Refreshments were served and much enjoyed. The leaving all the guests approached the bride and bridegroom of forty years, who wear their years lightly and well, and in sincere words of congratulation and friendship, wished them many such happy anniversaries in the future.

At 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, Feb. 15th, Rev. Father Michael Foley, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church, performed the marriage ceremony uniting the lives of Miss Emily Catherine Clark and Edward Patrick McCarthy. They were attended by Lloyd Turner and Miss Margaret McTague. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, on Highland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy left on the 1:18 train for Chicago and will be at home to their friends after March 15th at 603 Genesee street, Waukegan, Ill.

Valentine Party Enjoyable Affair

Monday afternoon Mrs. Anna Senick of N. Lincoln avenue entertained fourteen ladies with a Valentine party, which proved a most enjoyable affair.

Valentine decorations in red and white were very artistic and cut flowers added much to the pleasing result. Five hundred was the diversion for the afternoon. Mrs. Paul Grove winning the favor for the high score and Mrs. Fred Drew winning the consolation favor. The hostesses served a tempting Valentine luncheon, the refreshments being served in keeping with the day. Sandwiches in heart shape, small cake in the form of heart and decorated with hearts, dessert in heart form, etc., were part of the appetizing refreshments. After a most delightful afternoon the guests departed to treasure happy memories of the pleasant hours spent.

Surprised Lois On Her Birthday

Eight little friends of Lois Hallenber surprised her yesterday afternoon at her home, at 4 o'clock, in honor of her eighth birthday anniversary. Games were played and dainty refreshments were served. Each little girl found her place at the table by dainty place cards. Favors were tiny red satin heart boxes filled with bon-bons. A tempting cake bore eight pink candles, which made a pretty centerpiece for the table when the candles were lighted. The afternoon was a happy one for all. Lois receiving many pretty gifts in memory of the day.

ROBINSON WOMEN'S CLUB VERY ACTIVE

Robinson, Ill. (AP)—Bringing health to that trio of interests nearest all women, the school, the home and the community, has given club women of this town an outlet for the spirit of activity and service created by the World War.

Organized immediately after the war, the Robinson Women's club has confined its work to these well-defined channels. Its major activity has been in child welfare, since the members believe through this work they best can correlate the home with the school and community.

The club was instrumental in interesting children in work of the county health nurse. They sponsor an annual health program, supervise children's health playlets, sponsor baby clinics and otherwise perform the function of unofficial but efficient preventive physicians.

An interest also taken in the high school, and a book endowment fund recently established by the club. Miss Hazel Stephens is president.

At 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, Feb. 15th, Rev. Father Michael Foley, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church, performed the marriage ceremony uniting the lives of Miss Emily Catherine Clark and Edward Patrick McCarthy. They were attended by Lloyd Turner and Miss Margaret McTague. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, on Highland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy left on the 1:18 train for Chicago and will be at home to their friends after March 15th at 603 Genesee street, Waukegan, Ill.

ILLINOIS LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET

Chicago (AP)—Out-of-town women, who attend the second institute of government of the Illinois League of Women Voters, at Harris Hall, Northwestern University, March 2, 3 and 4, will not lack for entertainment.

The evening of March 2, the visitors will be guests of the Drama Club of Evanston at a theater party. The Woman's Club of Evanston will give a tea the next afternoon, and the final event will be a dinner that evening at the Georgian Hotel, at which Mrs. William G. Hibbard, director of the fourth region of the National League of Women Voters will preside. President Walter Dill Scott of the University will speak on "The University's Service to Citizenship." Miss Bertha Bidwell, first vice president of the Illinois League, will tell of "The League's Service to Citizenship."

Women's Club at Harmon Has Party

The members of the Harmon Women's Club held their annual party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ross last Friday evening, with about thirty in attendance and all reporting a most enjoyable time. A varied program of vocal and piano numbers, readings, stunts and games caused the hours to pass all too quickly, and dainty refreshments were served near the midnight hour, after which the company reluctantly left for their various homes. The committee in charge of the affair was: Music, Mrs. Will Hill; Stunts and Games, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Durr; Decorations, Mrs. Deitz; Refreshments, Mrs. Kianov and Mrs. Manning.

The long, slender silhouette was seen, powdered wigs and hoop skirts adding novelty; and even the little girl of sweet sixteen gave charm to the occasion.

spring flowers, corresponding with the corsage bouquets worn by the members. Silver, crystal and slender candle tapers made a pretty banquet board from which was served a real American turkey dinner. A huge birthday cake, with all the candles aglow, was cut and served during the dessert course by one of the charter members of the club.

Toasts were responded to and messages, letters and telegrams from many states and foreign lands were read.

The Peoria Avenue Reading Club boasts a unique and interesting history, some of which was reviewed during the evening.

After the dinner many interesting stunts were given, principal among which was an old-fashioned spelling match, which was greatly enjoyed. And so was passed another milestone in the life of this fine organization.

D. A. R. TEA SATURDAY AT MRS. THOMPSON'S HOME

Dixon Chapter D. A. R. will celebrate Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays with a tea Saturday at the home of Mrs. Willard Thompson, 515 E. OPPORTUNITIES IN THE AIR.

Much has been said concerning opportunities of cities in air transportation. Less has been said about the opportunities this field offers to young men who new are seeking the field of their life activities. It may be narrow now, but none of us can tell what its expansion will be.

The Daniel Guggenheim foundation has been created by the New York capitalist, founder of a school of aeronautics. He has indicated that $2,500,000 will be available for development of commercial aviation. That indicates his idea of the future of trade in the air.

"I am constantly asked by members of my family friends and acquaintances for suggestion about careers for their sons, and I invariably give the same answer, 'aeronautical engineering,'" said Mr. Guggenheim. "If I had a dozen sons and they wished to pursue professional or commercial careers, I would recommend such a course of training to them, believing as I do in aviation's tremendous possibilities.

"The people have not as yet awakened to a realization of the possibilities of air transportation, but in my judgment they will surely and rapidly do so, and I believe that it will not be a great while when they will come to understand what it all means to our country, to the whole world as well."

Most of us must be onlookers while this development is in progress, but we have witnessed such revolutions in everything about us by reason of inventions and the resulting traffic that we place no limitations upon anything in human ingenuity. If Mr. Guggenheim says that aeronautical engineering offers the greatest opportunity to young men of this age, we shall not dispute him. What we have seen al-rears, I would recommend such a course of training to the tremendous possibilities of aviation, and to get ready for them, whatever they may be. If the air is to be utilized for transportation purposes to the extent we generally predict, it follows that the equipment must be manned in the air, on the ground and in the shops and laboratories.

FIXED FOR LIFE.

Judge Ben B. Lindsay, who came into prominence by lecturing upon his experiences as judge of the Denver juvenile court, has been a comparatively busy man. Between presiding over his court, lecturing, writing and engaging in a few controversies, we take it that his time has been reasonably well occupied. However, we suspect that he now has in hand a controversy that will last him the rest of his life. He has declared himself in favor of a sort of probationary marriage.

He has drawn the fire of the clergy and he is back at them with a proposal of debates. The judge at least promises something interesting.

Not so much had been heard of him recently, little since he was engaged in contesting a proceeding involving contempt of court, but he has reached the news columns again for a day or two, and if he undertakes to convince the clergy, he never will be without an occupation.

Death Valley, Calif., is the hottest place in the United States, according to weather experts. We wonder if the people out there say, "Is it hot enough for you?"

But the Death Valley people are to be congratulated. They probably never hear the remark, "Nice weather for ducks." A whale was shipped through there once, old timers say, and spit cotton every foot of the way.

It would be a nice place for Turkish bath attendants to organize a football team. They could get into training by lying in the shade.

All the cooking an egg needs in Death Valley is to snatch it from the ice box and peel it quickly.

There's hope, though. A chamber of commerce could go out there and cut the temperature so quickly that old residents would sand move out.

Then you must expect to see this headline in the paper: "Polar Bears Frolic in Death Valley Zoo."

In the universities Hell Week is the period when fraternities abuse their prospective members. Outside the universities of course we have our own Income Tax Year. . . . The country needs more weeks, so why not take up Hell Week and make it national, like Apple Week, Watercress Week and the rest? During the week we could go about with a pitchfork over our shoulders and whenever somebody said, "When you carry an umbrella it never rains," we could let him have it in the ribs. . . . A flock of times would be a fine weapon for the leaping pedestrians. . . . The fellow who tells you all about how his radio works could be placed on a hot-plate in the marketplace.

The average man has lost an inch and a half in waist line during the last year, say the statisticians. Prohibition must be working after all.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Hello there, all you little men," the big balloon man said. And then he asked the Tines if they'd like to watch him for a spell. "If you'll just keep hands off," said he, "I'll gladly let you stay with me. Now watch when these balloons are blown and see how fast they swell."

The Tines sat down on the ground, all mighty glad that they had found a man who made the big balloons that all kids like to buy. "Oh, gee," said Scouty, "this is great. It's fun to watch you operate. I wonder how you have the strength to blow them up so high."

"That's easy," said the man, when through "now see if you can do it too." And then he handed Scouty one that still was very flat. "All right," said Scouty. "Here I go." He blew as hard as he could blow, and up the big balloon went, till it knocked off Scouty's hat.

"Ha, ha," the others laughed, in place. "Why, you're as clumsy as can be." But Scouty didn't mind that, 'cause he knew 'twas said in fun. The other Tines tried their luck, but every one of them was stuck. They found they couldn't do as well as Scouty's really done.

And then the balloon man said, "See, here, I've got to leave you now, I fear, 'cause I must sell my big balloons to people down the beach. But 'ere I go, here's what I'll do. I'll give this whole big bunch to you, and when you separate them, you'll find there's one for each."

They took the balloons and thanked the man, and down the beach he quickly ran. Then Scouty passed the things around. Ah, 'twas a treat quite new. But very quickly they all found their bodies floating from the ground. The wee balloons were lifting them up gently in the air.

Clowny gets caught on a steeple in the next story.

SAINT and SINNER

Faith was so angry when she left Blumfeld's fur shop, with the mink coat again safe in the suitcase, that she forgot her thinness and her fears. Before that saving anger had cooled down she was back on State Street, and, within five minutes, demanding, haughtily, an audience with the manager of an exclusive establishment before which she had hesitated in an agony of indecision less than an hour before.

Not even the thick-carpeted, silk-draped elegance of the shop daunted her. She held her head high as slim, haughty princesses of the world of fur coats paraded past her, staring at her obliquely, out of masked, faintly contemptuous eyes.

"This way please," a suave young salesman beckoned to her.

She followed him up a broad marble staircase to the offices on a balcony overlooking the display rooms. "Mr. Garner will see you, Miss."

The salesman opened a door for her and she entered a private office replete with mahogany and Oriental rugs.

Conscious that she looked out of place, in her shabby clothes, in the magnificence of her surroundings, she did not allow herself to resent the fact that the thin-faced, keen-eyed man at that desk did not rise to greet her. She set her suitcase down close to the door, then approached his desk, still buoyed up by her righteous anger.

"I am Faith Lane," she began without a tremor. "My sister, Cherry Lane Wiley, has asked me to sell her mink coat, and I have brought it to show to you."

"Cherry Lane Wiley?" To Faith's intense surprise, the stern face of the fur shop manager relaxed into a smile that was almost eager in its excitement. "The copper-haired mink—I beg pardon? Of course I've been following the case. I'm extremely interested. Have a seat, Miss Lane. Happy to meet you. Now, tell me—what with her defense let?" He leaned forward with boyish excitement.

"I—please, Mr. Garner, I'd rather not discuss the case," Faith stammered. "Thanks very much for your interest. I—my sister—we are desperately in need of money, Mr. Garner. We are working people, or rather, we were working people, until this thing happened. Cherry worked and my father and brother. Now there is only Junior—"

She caught herself up sharply, ashamed that she appeared to be appealing to his sympathies. "I am merely trying to explain why it is necessary for us to sell anything of value that my sister owns."

"I understand," Mr. Garner nodded. "Let me see the coat." Garner's does not buy used fur coats, but I can probably direct you to a manufacturing furrier who will give you the best price possible."

When the beautiful coat was in his hands, the fur shop owner drew a sharp breath of admiration. "Perfect! Finest skins! Perfectly matched! You ought to get a good price for this, Miss Lane. I'll call up Franklin myself. But—just a minute. Have you any credentials with you? It's just a form, of course. I believe you are what you say you are, but as a matter of business—"

Faith opened her handbag and drew out a folded slip of paper which carried Cherry's formal conveyance of the coat from herself to Faith. It had been Bob's foresight which had armed her with this protection.

TOMORROW: Faith sells Cherry's fur coat.

PUBLIC preference chooses the inimitable Chrysler "60"

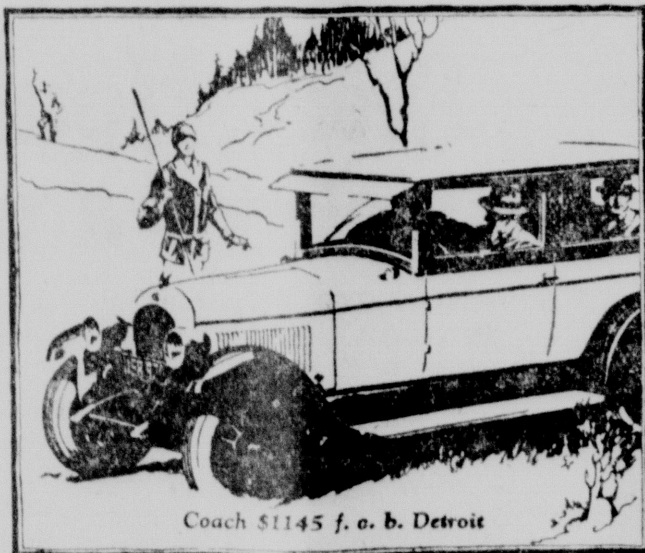

ONE of the most convincing proofs of Chrysler "60" superiority is trying to match its features in any other six of its type and price.

7-Bearing crankshaft;
Impulse neutralizer;
Oil filter;
Air cleaner;
4-Wheel hydraulic brakes;
Full pressure lubrication;
Manifold heat control;
Levelers front and rear—

These, with many other features that cannot be imitated, have been embodied in the Chrysler "60" ever since its introduction.

These typical features of the Chrysler "60" were harmonized into the car's original engineering design—and are thus uniquely Chrysler—insuring that flashing speed of 60 miles and more per hour, enviable acceleration of 5 to 25 miles in 7½ seconds, with the almost magical handling and operating ease that are typical of every Chrysler and endure throughout its long life.

It is for this fundamental reason that the Chrysler "60" has been accorded a public preference that has

Take Salts If Rheumatism is Bothering You

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. It is not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

PURDUE DEFEATS MICHIGAN: RACE THREE-WAY TIE

Boilermakers on Top, 37 to 32, in Big Ten Contest

Chicago, Feb. 16—(AP)—There finally has been found a basketball team that can beat Michigan.
Purdue did it last night, 37-32, on the Purdue floor and thereby precipitated a three-way tie for the Western Conference basketball leadership, Michigan, Purdue and Wisconsin now have five victories and one defeat each.

Indiana rests just under the three leaders, having lost two of its seven games. The Hoosiers play Michigan Saturday night. Should they win, it would be sweet revenge for a decisive whipping Michigan gave them earlier in the season.

Purdue and Wisconsin also have week end games, the former having a hard foe in Iowa while the Badgers draw less dangerous opposition in Ohio State.

One conference game will be played tonight, Illinois meeting Northwestern at Evanston. A victory for Illinois would put this team in a fifth place tie with Iowa. Northwestern has not won a conference game this season.

Delaney, Maloney Both Say "Ready"

New York, Feb. 16—(AP)—Jack Delaney felt on edge today and was confident of his ability to whip Jimmy Maloney in their ten round bout Friday night at Madison Square Garden. The light-heavyweight champion plans nothing but light drill now.

Meanwhile his opponent intends whaling his sparring partners around the ring at Long Branch, N. J., in a last minute drive for perfection of attack.

One of Maloney's sparring partners, a large negro named Leonard Neblett, was knocked out in the second round of his scrimmage with Boston's former fish merchant.

Maloney is confident that Friday night will find him a full stride closer to a match with Gene Tunney. Delaney impressed spectators at his Bridgeport camp with his perfect condition and ability.

Southpaw is Supreme in Three Cushion Game

Chicago, Feb. 16—(AP)—A southpaw reigns over the three cushion billiardists today.

Augie Kieckhefer, the Chicagoan who strokes a cue with the left hand showed precision and a thorough mastery in overwhelming Otto Relat of Philadelphia, the champion 50 to 20 in 31 innings last night.

Kieckhefer and Relat started their match tied at the top of the list, each having won 7 games and lost one. Besides Kieckhefer, the only other participant in the tournament who was able to beat Relat was Gas Cupulos of Detroit who finished third.

Allen Hall finished in a tie for fourth place with Art Thurnblad, Chicago and Tilford Denton of Kansas City, a former titleholder.
Earl Lockabaugh of Chicago, making his first tournament appearance, finished fifth.

Suzanne and Pyle Break Over Terms

New York, Feb. 16—(AP)—Plans of C. C. Pyle for conducting Suzanne Lenglen on a tour of European tennis centers have been abandoned. Disagreement over terms caused abandonment of the jaunt, William C. Pickens, Pyle's representative announced.

Suzanne demands approximated the same terms that brought her out as a professional. Pickens said Mile Lenglen received a flat guarantee of $500,000 and 50 percent of the gate receipts. She received a total of $100,000 for the tour including royalties for commercial use of her name.

Pyle himself declared he would resume tennis activities when an opportunity for profit is visualized. Suzanne expects to close negotiations for a tour with European promoters.

With the exception of Howard C. Kinsey, the remainder of the troupe has no intention of following her abroad. Miss Browne is to enter business in Cleveland.

HOW EXPERTS JUDGE CIGARS

Men who know cigars judge quality on five points: (1) Burn; (2) Aroma; (3) Flavor or taste; (4) Color; (5) Workmanship. Which do you count the most important?

In our own organization there is no complete agreement as to which feature is the main reason for the growing popularity of San Felice at 5c. Is it the blend or its mildness or other qualities? Try one and judge it point by point. What feature do you think is responsible for the amazing increase in demand for San Felice—a demand which has doubled and trebled? Perhaps it is the mild sexy cigar you are looking for. It costs only 5c to find out. So try a San Felice today—then you'll know.

Twelve Years OF DEPENDABILITY

It was Dodge Brothers distinction, twelve years ago, to create a more dependable car in its price class than previously had been known.

This enviable leadership Dodge Brothers have rigidly maintained.

Wherever difficult conditions try the souls of men and the stamina of motor cars, you will find Dodge Brothers product foremost in favor.

You will find also that six, eight and even ten years of service are not exceptional for the car; that frequently it delivers mileage running well into six figures; and that maintenance cost is remarkably low throughout its long and useful life.

These facts powerfully witness Dodge Brothers success in constantly bettering a product that was exceptional even at the start.

Use "Quick Fire Coke" For Fuel This Winter

It is a Clean Fuel

Almost perfect combustion with no dust or smoke and very few ashes. No soot in chimneys to burn and set fire to the home.

Firemen and Insurance companies insist that a large percentage of home-destroying fires are caused by soft coal soot from burning chimneys or sparks on the roof.

When people learn how clean, safe and economical "QUICK FIRE COKE" is, and how few times a day they have to fix the fire with it, they will never go back to coal for fuel.

The proper way to burn coke is simple and is told in an interesting booklet issued by the Indiana Consumers Gas and By-Products Co., Terre Haute, Ind., makers of the famous "Quick Fire Fire Coke." It is sent on request to any householder. Write for it today and learn how you may greatly reduce fuel bills, be safe from fires, and have a cleaner home.

When you order your next supply of fuel be sure to insist upon having "QUICK FIRE COKE" and none other. The registered name, "QUICK FIRE COKE" is more than a mere trade mark. It is a guarantee of efficiency, quality and service. Only the very highest grades of Eastern bituminous coals, that are always tested for greatest heating values are used in the process.

Thus "QUICK FIRE COKE" holds fire longer than ordinary coke, leaves very little ash, and burns with the least possible waste in smoke, soot or dust, to damage the house furnishings and interior decorations. Whether stored in bins or piled up out of doors, it does not deteriorate nor lose any of its heating value.

"QUICK FIRE COKE" is sold and recommended by

Complete Lubrication Saves Dollars

Thousands of motorists have accepted Iso-Vis, the new constant viscosity motor oil. Enthusiasm over this new and better lubricating oil is keen and widespread. Why? The motor runs smoother and better.

With Iso-Vis in the crankcase, the frictional surfaces are protected at all times by a cushion of oil—for Iso-Vis overcomes dilution. It maintains its viscosity (lubricating efficiency) until it is drained off. It costs a little more (30c per quart) but less per mile. Try it! You will like it! For extreme cold weather Iso-Vis "Light" is recommended.

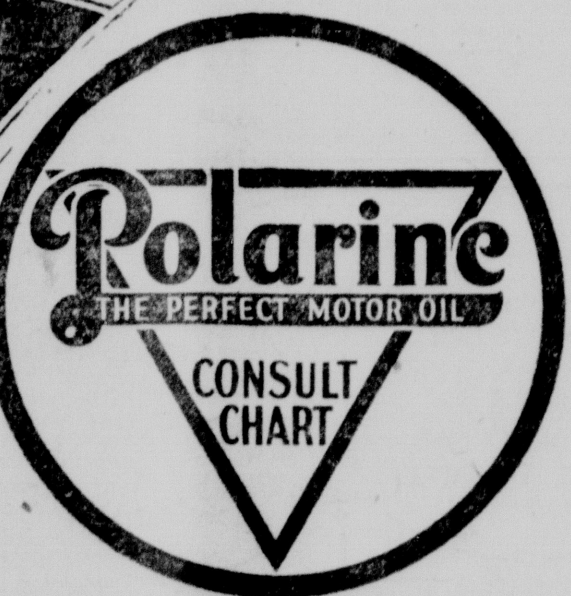

If you feel that you are able to control the dilution factor in your car yourself, and yet want maximum lubrication at minimum expense, use Polarine. Made in six grades—25c per quart. There is a grade made expressly for your car and that grade will lubricate thoroughly the remotest frictional surfaces of your motor.

Get Iso-Vis or Polarine at any Standard Oil Service Station or at any authorized garage or filling station displaying the emblems shown above.

On every road cars moving, flashing, heedless of the storm, converging upon the scene of disaster. John Ballard at the wheel of one, stripping all the rest, tense, desperate with agony and fear.

A train moving slowly, a white-faced engineer leaning out looking at washouts, for spread rails. Healed him a great, sinister wrecking crane. Behind that crowded cars, bearing nurses, doctors, stretchers, bandages, drugs.

Something on the track—an abandoned handcar. The fireman leaped down, pulled and tugged to clear the track.

And ahead in the ravine of Ram's Creek red hell. A jumbled mass of burning wreckage, sending tongues of sullen flames up, even through the rain. A babel of groans, curses, moans. Hissing steam from an overturned engine. Men and women, twisted, distorted, lying about. Others, dragging themselves painfully, aimlessly, hither and thither. Slowly, slowly, order came out of chaos. Men swarmed over the wreck like ants. Great blue torches blazed, cutting into the steel sides of the overturned sleepers. Searchlights lighted the scene. Pairs of men bore stretchers in an endless stream to the waiting train. Doctors and surgeons plied their trade. But many, most of those still forms that were borne away on the stretchers were beyond the aid of doctors, nurses, any human hands or hearts.

John Ballard moved like a man bereft through the maze. Among the first to come, he had done what he could, always looking, looking. Once, and again, and yet again, he met Jordan, seeking, too-seeking, had John but known it, the same

Then he sprang up. And, to his wonder and delight, she rose to her feet.

"You can stand—you can walk!" he cried.

"I'm not even scratched!" she said. "It—oh, it was a miracle, John! All the time I was held there, with the fire coming nearer and nearer—but I wasn't hurt—I was just caught by the back when it was torn loose. If I'd been lying down I would have been killed, but I was sitting up when the crash came."

"Thank God!" he cried. "Thank God!"

"And you," she said. "You have saved my life, John. What—what has happened?"

"Things too terrible to think about," he said, with a shudder, "I have seen things, while I looked for you, that I will never forget."

A man, wild-eyed, no more than the ghost of Jordan, stood before them.

"Mrs. Hardin!" he cried, joyfully. "You're safe! I thought you'd been killed! Have you got it—the box?"

She stared at him.

"The box?" she said. "What box?"

She looked behind her at the smoldering wreck.

"It's in there," she said gently. "If anything is left of it. But that I doubt, Mr. Jordan."

Jordan stared at her. His mind seemed scarcely to be working.

"Oh!" he said. "Yes, I see."

He looked, all at once, like a very old man. "I see," he repeated.

"Well, it doesn't matter. I—I'm glad you are safe."

John and Viola stared at one another. John raised clenched hands.

"If I could send him to the chair for this—the murderer!" he cried.

"Hush!" said Viola gently. "I think God will take care of his punishment, John."

He was still.

"Where—where is Phil?" she asked. He started.

"Phil? He—he came here. I heard—he was being watched. He came, rushing like a madman, when he heard the bridge was going to stop the train—and you."

"I must go to him," she said.

"Will you take me, John? Will you help me to find him?"

"Are you strong enough?" he said, jealously.

"Yes—oh, yes," she said. "John, we must go."

They stood facing one another. And suddenly she came to him, and her arms were about him.

"Oh, my dear, my dear!" she said. "Once—for the first time, and the last, kiss me! God cannot grudge us that!"

For a moment he held her in his arms, and their lips met.

Then slowly, clinging to him, she made her way down into the scene of horror and despair below.

Gradually now order was being restored. All the lives that could be saved had been redeemed. The fire was out. No longer did the groans and cries of the injured resound. All had been borne away, tenderly, gently, to the waiting train. Here and there bodies still lay. They had thought of the living first, since none could longer help the dead.

Men moved about seemingly meaningless, but each had his task to do. Already engineers and mechanics were at work preparing to open the way for traffic, which, no matter what had happened, must be kept moving.

On all sides blank looks met John's inquiries for Phil Hardin.

"President Hardin? Didn't see him at all, sir. Oh—Mrs. Hardin? On that train? Thank God, you're safe, ma'am!"

So it went as they made their painful way down into the ravine, and up the other side to where the second relief train waited now, the first having been sent back to Plainville with its pitiful load, so that the injured might, as soon as might be, be placed in the hospital. None had seen Phil Hardin.

And then suddenly they came to a spot where a handcar lay, turned on its side, beside the track. By it lay a still, bearded figure. Something made John turn back the sheet. And Phil's face, peaceful and serene at last, stared up at them. He was dead. A doctor, seeing them, came up.

"Ah!" he said. "Queer case. President Hardin. Rushed out on a handcar. Literally killed himself—heart couldn't stand the strain he put on it. He must have died just as he got here—they found him on the car dead when the train came along. Oh—I beg your pardon—Mrs. Hardin! I didn't know. Well—your husband died like a hero!"

It was Philip Hardin's epitaph. He had his measure of responsibility for the disaster that had occurred—but at least he had given his life in an effort to avert it.

Viola stood looking down at the dead form. Then she stooped, and her lips brushed the dead forehead for a moment.

"It is better so," she said quietly. THE END

"You can stand—you can walk!" he cried.

form for which his own eyes searched.

He had no clue. He did not know what car she had been in, he had no way of knowing where to search. Nor had Jordan.

John heard the ceaseless murmur of Jordan's voice.

"A small black box—steel, I suppose. Marked P. H.—Personal."

He neither knew nor cared what Jordan meant. Viola! She was here somewhere in this shambles. Dead? He almost hoped she was. There was one place where men worked, fanatically, desperately, to make an opening, while inside flames did their work, and shrieks unearthly came from those imprisoned.

But, hopeless though it was, he never gave up his search. He climbed the side of the ravine at last to where, high up, part of a car was caught. It was overturned. The sinister red glare of the omnipresent fire came from it. As he moved near it, trying to make sure whether anyone alive was there, he heard a voice that galvanized him.

"Help!" it cried feebly. "Help!"

He almost collapsed. The miracle had come to pass! He had found her.

"Viola!" he shouted. "Viola! I'm here—I'm coming!"

He saw her in a moment. She was caught, held down by some heavy object. Ten feet away the fire was creeping toward her; she could feel its heat.

"John!" she said. "Oh, John! Mercifully, she faints."

He never knew afterward how he contrived to free her. Something he did, making a lever of a sapling he uprooted. He struggled for what seemed hours. Three times he beat out the fire as sparks set her clothing to smoldering. Then suddenly, when he had all but given up hope, the weight that held her moved. The next moment he had drawn her out, and they were rolling down the slope together. And then it was his turn to faint.

It was the full light of a grey, sodden dawn when he came to his senses. His head was pillowed in Viola's lap. He stirred, saw her, breathed her name.

Students Try Cards to Better Study Averages

Minneapolis.—(AP)—Women students of the University of Minnesota tried a little psychology on their instructors in an effort to help assure good marks for the first term's work. Instead of waiting for the reports on their examinations through the usual channels, many young women turned over to their instructors addressed and stamped postal cards to hasten notification of their marks. Some said it was an experiment in psychology that prompted them to point on the cards elaborate and ornate inscriptions wishing themselves

At Sea

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON, while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. After being perfunctorily examined by a doctor, the body is brought to the Hotel Majanica, where an inquiry is started.

Folson's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, Mrs. HELEN BARNARD, and ANASTASIA FOLSON. It is established that Folson, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON known as the copper king.

Then the startling announcement is made that Folson had been stabbed to death in the water. Folson, his wife is questioned, and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the request it is established that the death weapon was a pinning, an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

It is also established that one Crodon Sears is a fancier of curio knives. Anastasia Folson, sister of the dead man, is an architect, to work on the case. He asks permission to go through the dead man's effects.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXI

"Of course, that's what I want you to do, Mr. Riggs," said Anastasia Folson. "But I can't feel that you can find anything of evidential value where I have failed. I've hunted all through his belongings, and though I found a lot of things I don't understand, I saw nothing that seemed, in the least, a straw to show which way the wind blows."

"No, I suppose not, or you would have told me. What do you make of these dolls?"

"They surprise me. Of course I know that they are a fad, just now. And I know that the dolls here are of the best and finest French variety. They doubtless came from Paris. But they don't suggest anything to me—do they to you?"

"No, I can't say that they do. But it is a strange taste for a man of Mr. Folson's type. I can understand his having them in Paris—but to bring them home with him, and then to bring them down here—did he cart them about wherever he went?"

"Yes, some of them. Ross told me that four or five of them were always packed with his luggage when he went away."

"Queer, to say the least," commented Riggs.

Dan Pelton arrived about noon on Sunday.

He went straight to his aunt's apartment and found her there awaiting him. Paxton, the maid, was hovering about, and Miss Folson dismissed her as she rose to greet her nephew.

"How are you, Dan? Sit over there. Smoke, if you like. Now, there's small use in your talking; you've nothing to say of interest. I'll tell you all there is to know."

Whereupon she launched into a full recital of the circumstances of Folson's death as she knew them.

Of the inquest and the verdict, and then proceeded to outline her plans for the future.

"I'm going to find the brute who killed Garrett if it takes my whole lifetime and my whole fortune as well. My brother was the only person on earth I loved or cared for. I don't believe you ward Uncle Garrett, and that is in no way changed by his death. But this talk is useless, aunt, and as I only came down for the funeral, I'll stay for that and then I'll go back to New York."

"You'll stay here as long as I want you to, and no longer. Come, now, Dan, be nice to me. I'm very sad and lonesome and terribly upset."

"I know it, Aunt Stasia, and I really want to help you, but you know uncle and I never hit it off, and you can't expect me to change all at once."

"No; but you can and must help me, if possible, to find and punish his murderer. You are the man of the family now—in fact you and I are the only members of the family left, and we must not quarrel."

"Well, I'll do all I can. I say, what are all the dolls for? 'Are they yours?'"

"No, they were Garrett's."

"Whew! Did he cart them around with him? For they don't look like the sort that grow down here."

"They are Parisian, that's clear. But they could have been bought here at that. Few things can be achieved in Ocean Town. However, he did bring these with him. Ross says he usually took them wherever he went."

"Oh, Ross, that first-class man he had. I don't see why I shouldn't fall heir to Ross. Where is he?"

Studebaker's 75th Birthday Announcement

Sweeping Price Reductions

The Commander, Studebaker's Big Six Brougham, reduced

$200

Today—February 16, 1927—Studebaker celebrates its seventy-fifth birthday with price reductions which reflect the aggressive spirit of this Company.

Studebaker has lived and grown for seventy-five years because of its consistent policy of keeping ahead of the procession.

Studebaker Custom Cars, introduced recently, exemplify this policy. They have been the most widely imitated cars ever produced. In less than six months no less than a dozen manufacturers have introduced what they call "models" . . . but a Studebaker doesn't make a custom car!

As Studebaker leads in design, so does it also lead in value. The new prices quoted below represent a supreme triumph of One-Profit manufacture.

New Prices, Studebaker Cars

Effective February 16, 1927
